

Students In Finance Interview

Go to a trusted adult. This could be a family member, other school staff, co-workers, church members, or anyone else in our community you would trust as an adult. Read this to your trusted adult:

This semester, we are studying financial education, how to make better decisions with our money. We are asking trusted adults in our community to share some of their thinking on what we're studying in class. If you don't feel comfortable sharing, that's quite all right. If you do, your answers will be used to help our class bring in knowledge from the community or better identify the needs of the community.

Record your adult's name and their relation to you. You are required to actually speak to an adult. Even if you hand them the paper to record their answers, it is important that you show respect, ask the questions and listen to what they have to say, and listen to their answers.

Name of Trusted Adult:

Relationship to Adult:

What bank do you bank with? If you don't have a bank currently, please explain why.

Do you trust banks in general? Why or Why Not?

Do you know the fees and requirements of your current bank account and what are they?

What interest rate does your bank account currently pay?

Do you know of any other bank or credit unions in the area which you could qualify for?

How do you think young people should go about choosing their first bank account?